Details: While driving to the cemetery on the south side of town, Brandon and I found this bird "singing" on a utility wire. The principle confusion species is Ringed Turtle-Dove. As seen from the photo, Ringed Turtle-Dove is eliminated by dark (not white) outer webs of retrices, overall darker coloration, darker primaries, and gray undertail coverts (not white). Also by three note song with emphasis on the second syllable. I videotaped the bird while it was "singing."

Image captured from video.

What is your prior experience with this and similarly appearing species? Seen too many of the beasts!

List books, guides, recordings or other sources consulted and how this influenced your identification (during and after observation): None.

This report is from memory and reviewing the video.
