Location mile marker 401 along Hwy 50, Bent County, Colorado

Length of observation:

Time(s) of observation: 10:45 – 10:50am

Other observers who saw the bird(s) with you: Brandon Percival

Other Observers who independently saw the bird(s): Ken Hollinga (VA)

Conditions: Sunny. Backlit.

Optical equipment used: B & L Elite 10 x 42 binocular.

Distance from bird(s) (estimated unless otherwise noted):

Habitat: rural lot.

Details:

Ken Hollinga mentioned these birds to Brandon, so we stopped along the south side of Hwy 50 near mile marker 401. Soon we saw two doves sitting on a wire. The main confusion species is Ringed Turtle-Dove. Images at left captured from video clearly separate it from that species.

Ringed Turtle-Dove is eliminated by dark (not white) outer webs of retrices, overall darker coloration, darker primaries, and gray (not white) undertail coverts.

I believe this is the first documented record for Bent.
