Details

Soon after arriving at the park Tony Leukering yelled "Inca Dove." Mark, Brandon and I went over, and sure enough there was an Inca Dove. I ran back to the car and grabbed the video camera and videotaped the bird, stills of which are included as figures 1 and 2.

The overall shape was similar to that of a Mourning Dove, though smaller. The long tail unlike any of the Ground-Doves. Unlike Mourning Dove, the tail was relatively squared off (see figures 1 and 2). The dove was conspicuously scalloped over the body and wings. The bird was colored in browns and buffs, darker on the upperparts, lighter below. No dark spots on wings. Face paler, without scaling. Underside of tail mostly white (see figures 1 and 2). Red eye and blue eye ring. In flight, rufous in primaries and white in tail. Aged by the amount of scaling.

No other ABA area dove has this much scaling, white underside of tail and rufous in wings.

What is your prior experience with this and similarly appearing species? I have seen hundreds of Inca Doves and hundreds to thousands of all the similar ABA-area doves.

List books, guides, recordings or other sources consulted and how this influenced your identification (during and after observation): None.

This report is from notes made following observation.
